5. Public Comment
 - 5.1. Becky Steinburner, rural Aptos – “Watching County progression on BESS, which are hazardous if lithium batteries are used. There is one currently in the permitting process on Minto Rd., in Watsonville. There will be 300 battery storage containers with lithium phosphate batteries prone to fire and toxic emissions. The BESS ordinance is coming to the Board of Supervisors on 11/18. I urge you all to read and weigh in before or during the meeting at 701 Ocean Street, Santa Cruz. As written, the ordinance is woefully lacking public safety assurances, and this is very concerning. The ordinance is posted at the County’s new BESS website (presents copy for the record)—Please read it; there is only one paragraph related to fire safety; (presents a copy for the record of Solano County’s 11/4 BESS ordinance) Solano utilized a technical advisory group and created excellent ordinance model, which can be googled “Solano BESS ordinance". If the Santa Cruz County Ordinance is approved as currently written, South Santa Cruz County is in great peril. Evacuation planning, hazardous waste runoff, water supply to fight fire--how will the county address these concerns?"

- 5.2. Nina Audino, Stop Lithium Batteries in Santa Cruz County - "Yesterday at a Pajaro Valley Fire District meeting, a man asked fire experts, 'how will you contain and extinguish a lithium fire?' The response was silence. So, when the fire happens, even if limited to a single container, the resulting plume will go beyond facility boundaries. Working for ten 10 months, and we have received no response from the County. County Office of Education (?) ignored our comments. There have been no presentations from experts, just industry. How's Paulson Road? Where are the calculations on people living in the area? Where is this information? CEC (?) process is rigorous – EIR dedicated to the facility is less rigorous. This is dangerous tech in rural areas, protect these areas and ag land.
